Author Diane Iverson Speaks at Cottonwood Public Library

Diane Iverson, the author and/or illustrator of 19 books will be on hand at the Cottonwood Public Library on Wednesday, June 18th at 1:00 pm in the Youth Services Program Room for a presentation of her newest book When I Dream. The book is dedicated to children who dream of better things and to the people who work to empower them.

Iverson is Director of Special Projects for Open Door, a Coalition for Compassion and Justice Program that addresses the needs of low-income residents in Yavapai County. She is an advocate concerned with issues of justice and compassion both for the earth and its inhabitants, but especially for children. The proceeds of this book will be used to support programs and projects within CCJ that help children in poverty. Please visit their website at www.yavapaiccj.org.

The library is located at 100 S 6th St in Cottonwood. For more information on Diane Iverson's visit, call the library at 634-7559.
